

A woman with dark hair, wearing a dark blue t-shirt and a gold hoop earring, is shown in profile from the chest up. She is looking towards the left at a large, colorful abstract painting. The painting features various shades of blue, green, yellow, orange, and brown, with visible brushstrokes and a textured surface. The text is overlaid on the lower portion of the image.

"My paintings are a contemplation of movement and surrender. They capture the act of letting go into the relentless current that surrounds and shapes us. Each piece becomes a moment suspended in motion—an echo of the unseen forces that carry us forward. Layered, sketch-like markings over abstracted figures recall pencil drawings, softly reflecting the impermanence of life. Drawing on my experience of motherhood, I explore a sense of calm not in stillness, but in yielding to motion itself.."
