‘Canopy’
Camille Manley

Camille Manley is an Australian painter based in South East Queensland, whose layered, gestural canvases translate the rhythm and atmosphere of place into fields of colour, mark and light. Raised on Ngunnawal Country, the bushland and Brindabella Ranges around Canberra still inform her visual language, shifting between open, atmospheric passages and more illustrative detail as she explores how we view ourselves within the landscape. A COFA graduate who spent years in design in Sydney before returning to painting in recent years, she has shown across Queensland and New South Wales with solo exhibitions in 2021, 2024 and 2025. Camille has been a finalist in the Fisher’s Ghost Art Award, the Harden Art Prize, and her paintings are held in private collections nationally and internationally.

These works have emerged from slow, repeated time spent outdoors with my son, walking, collecting, observing, and from the particular quality of attention and wonder that comes from moving through a place together, unhurried, enveloped in the same light and air. They describe a place we’ve frequented a few times in the hinterland National Park near where we live, and the pace at which time seems to move between visits, already looking back on the time before, missing each moment while I’m still in it.
